Humans do not interest me. I seek out yummy, protein packed insects for my meals.

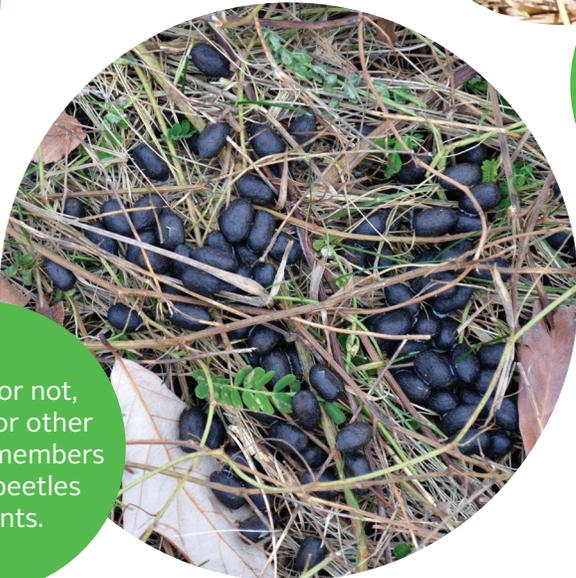

My vines are hairy, but birds don't find them scary. Instead, they relish my nutritious berry!

I'd rather spend my time pollinating flowers for seeds and fruits than waste my energy stinging you.

I help habitats by eating small mammals, worms and insects – keeping their populations in check.

Believe it or not, I am food for other ecosystem members like dung beetles and plants.
